THE TURN DAY

Of Pittsburgh District Held in Wheeling Attracted a

NUMBER OF VISITING TURNERS.

THE EXERCISES OCCUPIED A LARGE PORTION OF THE DAY, AND WERE WITNESSED BY A LARGE CROWD—EXCITING BASKET BALL GAME BETWEEN THE PITTSBURGH AND WHEELING TEAMS ENDS IN A TIE—THE NEXT TURN DAY TO BE HELD IN ALLEGHENY.

Turner hall presented a very busy appearance yesterday. Within its walls were gathered many of the active Turners from a distance and the local members, in celebration of the regular Turn day of the Pittsburgh district, which was held this time in Wheeling. The event also attracted a number of their friends, which together with their wives and sweethearts, formed one of the most congenial gatherings ever assembled there.

Preparations for the affair have been going on for several days, and yesterday morning the local committees had everything in readiness. The visitors who came from Pittsburgh, McKeesport and other towns in Pennsylvania, arrived in the city before 11 o'clock, over the Baltimore & Ohio. The other visitors including those from East Liverpool and Steubenville. All were escorted to the hall on North Market street, where the exercises, appropriate to Turn day were given, continuing with intermissions for the basket ball game and dinner and supper until 6 o'clock, when the out-of-town Turners and their friends left for their homes.

The first proceeding was the meeting of the officers of the Pittsburgh district Turnverein. This consumed the time until noon, when dinner was served. About 1 o'clock District Turnwart, Henry Bittling, of the South Side Turnverein, Pittsburgh, assisted by Louis Bartens, first turnwart, of this city, inspected the class work. They viewed all the exercises of the Wheeling and visiting turners, and some fine work was shown. The exercises, which were witnessed by a large crowd, concluded at 4 o'clock. Then came the basket ball game, between the Central Turnverein team, of Pittsburgh, and the Wheeling Turners. It resulted in a tie, 6-6.

The game was very exciting, and the locals' splendid showing aroused great enthusiasm. The Centrals were the heavier and were confident of winning out by 20 to 0, but they soon found they were up against it. Two twenty-minute halves were played, the visitors getting three goals from the field, and the same number were secured by the Wheeling boys, Friedrichs getting two and Wilhelm one. The Pittsburghers couldn't hide their disappointment at being held down so, yet the locals were short one of their team and in the return game at the next Turn day, which occurs at Allegheny, the latter part of next month, will do much better than a tie. The Centrals have the reputation of being cracks, hence were surprised to find that there were others.

The Turn day did much to awaken interest in the passive members of the Wheeling Turnverein. It was also an occasion for the local members to show how they could entertain, and they did things up brown. The meals were served by their lady friends, to whom a deserved vote of thanks was passed at the conclusion of the affair. The committees in charge were as follows:

Committee on reception—President Joseph Weisgerber, William A. Schambra, John Schenk, Andy Bashar and Louis Troesch.

Committee on arrangements—Vice President Nick Plume, Martin Ruggaher, Herman Schambra, Herman Friedriche, Louis Bartens and Joe Kuriz.

Among some of the prominent visiting turners were: William Wartman and William Kaiser, M. Schmidt, of Pittsburgh; Albert Dahler, of McKeesport; Herman Groeth and H. C. Bloedel, of Allegheny; Fritz Koch, of Birmingham, and Charles Meyer, of Steubenville.

The visit was profitable to all concerned, and it will tend to produce more activity in Turner circles in this city than for years. The regular mid-winter concerts will begin shortly and the turner classes will begin to-morrow evening, under the instruction of Louis Bartens. He will have two classes running from six to eighteen years of age, and with his ability it is asured that they will be well taught.

A MEMORIAL volume of Mrs. Annie C. F. Cunningham, with portrait, has just been published, containing brief biographical sketch, addresses at funeral, tributes paid by various societies and organizations, letters and other matter.
